NOTES IN SEASON.

CASSELL & Co. will publish this month another of the Byrnes-Hawthorne series, entitled "Another's Crime."

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. will publish shortly "The Last Journals of Bishop Hannington." The volume will be somewhat a continuation of the "Memoirs of Bishop Hannington," though, of course, treating altogether of the later years of his life and of his work in Africa.

D. APPLETON & Co. will next week add to their carefully selected Town and Country Library "A Virginia Inheritance," by Edmund Pendleton, author of "A Conventional Bohemian;" and "Ninette: an idyl of Provence" by the author of "Vera" and "Hotel du Petit St. Jean," both of which made successes.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue shortly a very charming novel, entitled "In Hot Haste." The plot turns upon the marriage of a Count von Weide in order to secure to himself an inheritance. "In Hot Haste" is said to be written with great feeling and to contain peculiar interesting descriptions of German life.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation "Omitted Chapters of History Disclosed in the Life and Papers of Edmund Randolph, Governor of Virginia, First Attorney-General United States, Secretary of State, etc.," by Moncure D. Conway. The volume will contain copies of a large number of unpublished documents from the British and French Foreign Offices.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS will publish shortly "The Handy Reference Atlas of the World," by John Bartholomew, containing 100 maps and plans, a complete index, and geographical statistics. Their latest additions to Morley's Universal Library are Michael Wodhull's translation into English verse of "Hecuba" and other plays by Euripides; and "Sequel to Pantagruel," books 3–5 of Rabelais' "Gargantua," forming respectively volumes 61 and 62 of that series.

THE BALTIMORE PUBLISHING Co., Baltimore, Md., will publish on the 10th an entirely new edition of Father Ryan's Poems. It is printed from new plates and otherwise improved in style, and contains a memoir, many beautiful songs which have not heretofore been printed, and many new and fine illustrations. This compliment to the poet-priest will no doubt be appreciated by the many admirers of the "sweetest voice that ever was raised in behalf of the faith and clime he loved so well."

D. C. HEATH & Co. have ready a collection of twenty-five models and twenty-five photographs by N. S. Shaler, Wm. M. Davis, and T. W. Harris, Instructors in Geology in Harvard College, designed to show the principal features in the structure of the superficial aspects of the earth's crust, with extensive text descriptive of each figure, prepared for the use of beginners in geology. This collection is now in use in the laboratory of Harvard College, by the Boston School of Natural History, and a dozen other schools of various grades.

HARPER & BROS. have just issued a handsomely illustrated work, entitled "The Capitals of Spanish America," by W. E. Curtis, in which all the great cities in the central and southern parts of this Western continent are described at length, and their ancient history retold in a vivacious and lucid style. The dedication is to President Arthur, and with it is printed his letter accepting the compliment. This letter was the last thing Mr. Arthur wrote, but the signing being delayed for a day, death stepped in, and it was never signed. They have also just ready "Housekeeping Made Easy," by Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick. As its title indicates, the book is intended for women who are ambitious to conduct the business of their households in a business-like, successful way. Good sense and experience mark what the authoress says; and if the book does not accomplish all that the title promises, it it simply because nothing can really make housekeeping easy. The range of the volume is from renting the house to entertaining "Benedick" at home.

Starting from Philadelphia, the newly-wedded couple take the cars for New York; from here they invade Boston, Portland, make a stay at Fabyan's in the White Mountains, ascend Mount Washington, visit the Glen House, thence to Montreal, Quebec, etc. With descriptions of the journey are many loving conversations between the "bachelor" and his bride, and some original poems and stories. The book seems designed as an advertisement of a New York insurance company.

Brown, L. Q. C. Kenneth Cameron. Phil., T. B. Peterson & Bros., [1888.] c. 18-349 p. sq. S. cl., $1.25; pap., 75 c.

Opens in the "fifties," before the war had abolished slavery, the scene being laid on the two great Louisiana plantations of Lagrange and Emerald, and in New Orleans. The plot is not at all complex, dealing entirely with Kenneth Cameron's manly struggle to pay off his dead father's debts, and his troubled courtship of the beautiful Hortense Gaston, the belle of New Orleans. Many typical southern people are introduced and the negroes photographed to the life. There is a capital description of the Mardi-Gras festivities, and of the great race between the rival horses Lexington and Lecomte.

D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 3-233 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

This is not a story in the general acceptance of the term, but a plain matter-of-fact narrative of the experiences of a country boy of seventeen, who ran away from home to go to sea, and who after an adventurous life of a dozen years came back to find his parents dead, the remainder of the family scattered, and the old homestead in ruins. One cannot help feeling that it is a record of genuine experience, so naturally do the incidents follow one another, and so skilfully are they wrought together.

Malet, Lucas, [pseud. for Mrs. Harrison.] A counsel of perfection. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 2+324 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 4.) pap., 50 c.

That there may be no doubt of "Lucas Malet's" identity, this novel is dedicated "to my very dear friend and brother-in-law, Clifford Stanley Harrison." It is a character-study like "Mrs. Lorimer" and "Colonel Enderby's wife" betraying keen observation, knowledge of the world, and a most graceful wit. Lydia Casteen, an unmarried woman of almost forty years, who is a Latin and Greek scholar, and who has for years been the right hand of her father, Dr. Casteen, the great authority in church history, is charmingly portrayed. Her visit to Switzerland and her meeting with Anthony Hammond, and the effect he has upon her life and character, form an exceptionably interesting tale.

Payn, Ja. The mystery of Mirbridge: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 221 p. il. O. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., new ser., no. 623.) pap., 50 c.

Mirbridge is the familiar country town in character and surroundings that the English novel has made us so well acquainted with. The return of Sir Richard Trevor to Trevor Court after twenty-five years' absence with an unknown wife and grown son, has set all the gossips talking in the early chapters. This wife and son are the heart of the mystery, which is unravelled with much dexterity.

Pictures at play; by two art critics; il. by Harry Furniss. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1888. 128 p. S. pap., 35 c.

Pure (A) souled liar. Chic., C: H. Kerr & Co., 1888. c. 191 p. D. pap., 50 c.

This remarkable title characterizes a foolish young girl, who is held up as worthy of example, because she assumes the consequence of her friend's sin, and ruins her own character in the eyes of the world, through a Quixotic estimate of the requirements of friendship. The scene is laid in Boston. The two girls who are the heroines are art students. The unconventionality of student-life develops their Bohemian instincts, and in the author's opinion makes them weak in temptation.

Shepard, E: M. Martin Van Buren. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 6+398 p. S. (American statesmen ser.) cl., $1.25.

A careful and scholarly study, not only of the life of Martin Van Buren (b. 1782, d. 1862), but of his political period. Van Buren was successively State Senator and Attorney-General in New York, U. S. Senator, Governor of New York, which office he resigned in two months to become Secretary of State in Jackson's cabinet, Minister to England, Vice-President, and seventh President, 1837-41. He was a disciple of Jefferson, the friend and successor of Jackson, and held to the political theory that government is "a mere instrument" to an end, to be tested and measured by its practical service to popular rights and needs. The author's discussions of the crisis of 1837, of the Democratic idea of government, and of the development of the nation, make this book particularly timely and by far the most thoughtful and best book on Van Buren, whom he places with Madison and the younger Adams in "the second rank of American Presidents." Gabrielle de Monterey forces the widow and child of Jean Mortier, unjustly accused of the murder of Pierre Mortier, to take up their abode in her house. The motives which lead her to this seemingly uncalled-for piece of generosity, and which lead Mme. Mortier to accept her kindness, are brought out by the story. For fifteen years these two women live under the same roof, and their children learn to love each other. It is this love which leads to the detection of the real murderer. Roger de Monterey is forbidden to marry the daughter of a murderer. Believing in Jean Mortier's innocence, his efforts to clear his name for the daughter's sake bring about some startling revelations.

Walworth, Mrs. J. H. The silent witness. N. Y., Cassell & Co., [1888.] c. 4+208 p. D. (Cassell's rainbow ser., v. 1, no. 25.) pap, 50 c.; cl., $1.

The murder of Dr. Whitehurst in his office during office hours is the leading incident. A young deaf and dumb girl who has never been taught to communicate with others, is the only person known to have been near the room at the time. Whether she witnessed the murder, or saw the person who did it, is for a long time in doubt. When at length she is able to tell her story, her testimony mixes things even more, throwing suspicion on an entirely innocent person. Although the novel is full of the usual detective business, it is strong and interesting, having a novel love-story.

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Phelps Publishing Co., of Springfield, Mass., we understand, has completed arrangements by which it has secured control of the capital stock of the Judd Co. The officers of the Phelps Co., as already announced, are President and Treasurer, Edward H. Phelps; First Vice-President and Business Manager, George S. Graves; Second Vice-President, James D. Safford; Trustees, E. H. Phelps, G. S. Graves, J. D. Safford, Charles H. Post, and Howard Mansfield, of New York. The by-laws of the company require a majority of the trustees to live in this city and Vice-President Graves has therefore made New York his legal residence and will divide his time between the two companies of which he is business manager. Mr. Samuel Burnham who has for twenty years been the secretary of the Judd Co., is retained by the new management, as is also Dr. F. M. Hexamer as principal working editor.

NEW YORK CITY.—Edward Goodenough and H. Frank Woglom, comprising the firm of Goodenough & Woglom, dealers in books and Sunday-school supplies, at 122 Nassau Street, made an assignment, June 29, to William A. Jones, Jr., giving two preferences for $3457. Mr. Goodenough has been in the business thirty years and is known all over the country. Years ago his place was the down-town branch of the Methodist Book Concern. Mr. Goodenough also made an individual assignment to Mr. Jones, as he was also interested in other enterprises. He was President of the Palmer Chemical Company, at 32 Frankfort Street, of which his son-in law, William Harris, is Treasurer. The capital stock of this company, it is reported, was two months ago reduced from $100,000 to $50,000. About a year ago Goodenough, Harris, and Woglom started the publication of a monthly magazine called Woman, and this business was conducted under the name of the Woman Publishing Company. A week ago this company was incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000. It is said that the corporation did not assume the liabilities of the firm which it succeeded. The assignment is attributed to accommodation indorsements, principally in connection with the publication of Woman. Mr. Harris, Mr. Goodenough's son-in-law, also made an assignment as a partner in the Woman Publishing Company, to John H. Pine, giving preferences.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Athenæum in its issue for July 7 publishes a series of articles on the literature of continental Europe during the last twelve months. Among the articles are Belgium, by M. É. de Laveleye and Prof. Fredericq; Denmark, by M. V. Petersen; France, by M. Jules Levallois; Germany, by Hofrath Zimmermann; Holland, by Miss Van Campen; Hungary, by Prof. Vámbéry; Italy, by Commendatore Bonghi; Norway, by M. Jaeger; Spain, by Don Juan Riaño; and Sweden, by Dr. Ahnfelt.

The American Magazine for July contains letters from J. T. Trowbridge, E. E. Hale, Edgar Fawcett, T. W. Higginson, Joel Benton, Rev. J. W. Chadwick, R. W. Gilder, Rev. Lyman Abbott, Dr. Hammond, Judge Tourgee, Eugene Field, D. H. Harryman, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Henry George, Maurice Thompson, Sidney Luska, Admiral Porter, Anna Katherine Green, and Mary Agnes Tincker, in favor of the Chace Copyright Bill. Edith M. Thomas has a poetical contribution on the subject in the same issue.

The St. Louis Herald, a monthly journal just started by Charles A. Mantz, of the Phœnix Book and Stationery Co., 625 Locust St., promises, in addition to other matter, to "lend its aid and assist in promoting the sale of good books, the erection of additional libraries for the public, the purchasing of private libraries, and a more general distribution of healthy, vigorous, and substantial literature in book-form among the people." We wish our new contemporary success, but fear that he has undertaken too large a contract.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. ARTHUR H. SCRIBNER, of Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons, returned from Europe last week, Friday, via the North German Lloyd steamer Lahn.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 7, 1888.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL, 1888.

THE great "book of the season," beyond all doubt, is the little pocket volume annually issued from this office under the title of the "Publishers' Trade List Annual." It has grown, naturally, with the growth of the book-trade, and is, in fact, a monumental record of that growth. Looking back to the days before Mr. Leypoldt put this useful plan into operation, and recalling the jumble of catalogues of all sorts and sizes, gathered higgledy-piggledy together in the drawer or on the shelf, it is easier to estimate the real service done to the trade by this work.

The leading publishers now, almost without exception, come into the "Trade List Annual" as a matter of course. They have found by experience that the live booksellers, who are their chief customers, use the "Annual" as the most important tool of the trade every day and every hour. But there is still much difficulty in obtaining the catalogues of the smaller publishers, although it is really most important to their own interests that they, of all people, should be represented, since the retail trade is less familiar with their publications than with those of the more famous houses. We trust any of our friends who have realized the advantages of the "Annual" will coöperate with us toward getting it as complete as possible.

We have, from time to time, various suggestions from individual members of the trade for the modification of the "Trade List Annual." One of them suggests, for instance, that we might publish yearly a compilation of the new books, and issue the "Annual" proper with a full index every five years. The most practical answer to that suggestion would be to leave it to our friendly critic to see how his balance-sheet would stand with such an arrangement, and how many months or years after his book should be published it would be actually ready. Mr. Whitaker's chief difficulty with his useful "English Reference List" has been the possibility of preparing such an index in time to issue promptly the book which it accompanies. In fact, after a great deal of experimenting, we have settled down to the belief that the five-yearly "American Catalogue," with the "Annual Catalogue" at the beginning of the year, and the "Trade List Annual," binding together publishers' catalogues for fall use, constitute, on the whole, the most practicable trade bibliography that can be devised. Such a system must be more or less expensive to make, and must cost something to booksellers; but we believe that it is proved, by the experience of the best booksellers, that there is no better investment than in a set of tools of this sort.

One of the chief difficulties heretofore in the "Trade List Annual" has been that publishers who took pains to send in their catalogues in good time put themselves at a disadvantage alongside of publishers who sent in after the proper time, and took more or less advantage of the delay to get in later books than their rivals. The result of this was to knock to pieces our arrangements for binding, difficult at the best, and to throw the whole machinery out of gear. We remedied that last year by making an absolute date, after which catalogues would positively not be received, except by special previous arrangement and on a payment of an extra charge. To that arrangement we adhered last year, and we intend to adhere to it as positively this year also. We trust, therefore, that our publishing friends may be prompt in sending their catalogues on the certainty that every one will be fairly and equally treated in the matter, and that the "Annual" will be issued with such promptness as to give them the full benefit of its use.

ONE of the most important of Government publications for the information of the people is the "Statistical Abstract of the United States," of which the tenth number for 1887 is but just out. It is prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department, under charge of Col. Wm. F. Switzler, and is one of the most valuable compilation of facts issued anywhere in the world. The usefulness of such a compilation depends largely upon the promptness with which it is issued, and it is much to be regretted that the lack of permanent appropriation for such a work as this should delay its issue as has been the case this year. The document was transmitted to Congress in January, but because of dilatory appropriations it could not appear until June, so that almost half its value is lost by the half year's delay. There is no better illustration than this document of the importance of devising some scheme of Government publication by which work shall be done promptly and a price put on publications so that they may be furnished to the public through the ordinary channels of the book-trade. There are thousands of people who would be glad to have such a compilation of facts, especially in the coming campaign, who do not know that such a work is published anywhere in the country.

ONE of the most amusing features of the present copyright movement—and there are not a few—is the agitation that has worked the "bone and sinew" of the British Isles into a fever heat, which to the more cool-headed must cause positive alarm. The "British workman," that is the "printers, printers' engineers, engravers, booksellers, compositors, pressmen, machinemen, machineboys, printers' devils, paper-makers, paper-makers' engineers, paper-stockmen, publishers, bookbinders, type-founders, ink-makers, lithographers, etc.,"—to quote a list displayed in large type down the columns of the British Printer—have combined to protest against the Chace Bill for no other reason than that they object to having the "headquarters of literature transferred, either gradually or suddenly, from England to America." Their great fear seems to be that "America is likely to become sole manufacturer of the best English books," and "the London houses would become mere branches of the American ones." Among other alarmists, the Paper Trade Review seriously considers this "a question of extreme gravity concerning alike the vital necessities of the printing and auxiliary trades, and there is a danger of its being merged into a question of general commercial poli y. That must not be! We feel that it is no fiscal question whatever. Free trade and protection have nothing to do with the matter." Truly, the "Dutch are going to take Holland." The interests of English authors, by the way, are quite overlooked by these gentlemen.

COMMUNICATIONS.

"A BUNCH OF ROESES" AGAIN.

CHICAGO, June 30, 1888.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR SIR: In your issue of the 23d we notice a leading editorial, entitled "A Bunch of Roeses," in which you take very justifiable exceptions to the apparent attempt of some publishers to sell the book of one author under the name and fame of another.

We published Col. E. R. Roe's "Gray and Blue" in 1884, but you will see by the title-page of the book sent herewith, as well as by the stamp on the back, that we have not attempted to make use of the reputation of Col. Roe's cousin in selling his book. We have another novel by Col. Roe ready for publication, which we shall issue under the Colonel's full name. We have been annoyed, once or twice, by errors arising from the popular belief that there can be but one author of a name; for instance, we recently received an anonymous communication from Canada, in which the writer boldly accused us of having forged a name, and in which he assured us that there was but one writer named Roe. You know the error into which you also fell in cataloguing the book some time since. Col. Roe is an old writer, and his scientific work is well known among specialists. It remains to be seen whether his novels will reach great popularity; but, in any case, those published by us must attain fame, if at all, under his own name.

Yours truly,

RAND, MCNALLY & CO.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

ENGLISH OPPOSITION TO THE CHACE BILL.

ON June 15, the Edinburgh Chamber of Commerce held a meeting to consider what action should be taken in connection with the American Copyright Bill. Mr. J. Tod presided, and having introduced the matter, said there was a good deal of the cloven foot in it; and it was believed that if it passed it would strike a blow at the printing and publishing interest in Great Britain.

Mr. Turnbull, of Turnbull & Speirs, said he had been requested to submit the following resolution:

"In view of the present movement in the United States in favor of an international copyright law, the directors are requested to memorialize Her Majesty's Government to enter into communication with the American Government so as to bring about an international arrangement on an equitable basis, by which the rights of literary property will be duly recognized without preference to the industrial interests connected therewith of either country."

He explained he was induced to make this motion, first, that as bookmaking was a staple industry in Edinburgh, any measure affecting the printing trade adversely or otherwise would be widely felt in the community in which they lived, and secondly, that "the bill now before the House of Representatives in America, and consideration of which was the immediate cause of their meeting that day, was not an international bill. He did not find that it was even called an international bill."

Mr. John Grant deprecated the chamber passing the resolution.

Mr. W. G. Blaikie, of Messrs. Constable, said the Chace Bill was "the most extraordinarily clever bid he had seen, under the guise of justice, to transfer the centre of the literary industry from this country to America; and though the bill might not take full effect in five years or in ten, or during the business life of most of them, it would induce a steady movement in that direction. Mr. Grant he listened to with intense interest, for nothing could appeal more strongly to their side of the question. He said that the Americans were looking after the interest of their own people; that was what the British people intended to do. Mr. Grant thought that very few books would be set up twice, and that there would be a counter current, some being printed here and some in America. Well, that was what would not happen. If there was not money to set them up in both countries, the compositors' trade must go to America. They might take, for example, one of the greatest productions of Edinburgh—the 'Encyclopædia Britannica.' How could Mr. Black afford to print the 'Encyclopædia Britannica' in this country, as well as in America, supposing a new edition came out? If the publishers and authors, upon seeing that a great new market was open to them, deserted their old allies, the printers and paper-makers of this country, they might be certain that these authors would not escape scot free in the long run. London would ultimately become simply a branch publishing office, instead of being at the head of the trade." What he strongly urged their workmen to do was that they should endeavor to get a similar clause inserted in the British Copyright Bill. The motion was then adopted.

GLADSTONE AND THE EDINBURGH PRINTERS AGAINST THE CHACE BILL.

AT a meeting of printers, held in Edinburgh on the 29th of June, it was decided to petition the [English] Government to endeavor to secure the withdrawal from the Copyright Bill of the clause providing that type set for copyright books must be set in America.

Mr. Gladstone, in a letter to the Edinburgh printing and allied trades, says he supports their agitation against the American Copyright Bill, but his "public meddling, as a politician, at the present stage, might tend to stimulate the jealousies and susceptibilities of American protectionism, thus injuring those who fight the battle of justice and good sense. Let us, as politicians, leave the case in the hands of the great American people. Agitators can make the case fully known, and possibly they will find the Government disposed to mediate."

WEED OUT THE BEATS.

From the Western Stationer.

STATIONERS, booksellers, printers, paper dealers, everybody should look out sharp for that class of customers who claim to be buying exactly that same grade of goods from some other manufacturer or dealer at a much lower price. There are more liars, we fear, of this class afloat in the community than a few. They aim to break prices, to cut the life out of trade by stirring up an unnatural competition, and they reap their reward by getting goods at a lower figure than the goods should be sold for. This class of customers are exceedingly undesirable. They ought to be weeded out. They hurt the legitimate trade, and are a positive injury to every line of business. The trouble is that men are too ready to lend them a willing ear—too ready to believe almost anything that is told them about their competitor. If manufacturers and dealers had the backbone to say they didn't care what other people were getting, and stick to a fair price, their lying customers would be made to pay an honest price for their goods. We commend this subject to the careful consideration of every manufacturer, jobber, and dealer.

ANCIENT MATERIALS FOR PAPER-MAKING.

DR. JULIUS WIESSNER, from a microscopical examination of the paper from El-Faijûne, preserved in the Austrian museum at Vienna, in the collection known as "Papyrus Erzherzog Rainer," has conclusively proved that linen rags were used in the manufacture of paper as early as the eighth and ninth centuries. The fibre is chiefly linen, but there are also traces of cotton, hemp, and animal fibres present. The manufacture of paper out of rags is, therefore, an Eastern, and not a German or an Italian invention, as has hitherto been supposed. Out of 500 Oriental and Eastern specimens, not a single one was a raw cotton paper. All those that were examined had likewise been "clayed" like modern papers. The material used for this purpose was starch paste, manufactured from wheat, and in some cases buckwheat. Animal substances do not appear to have been employed for "claying" before the fourteenth or fifteenth century.

OBITUARY.

FRANK BELLEW.

FRANCIS HENRY TEMPLE BELLEW, or, as he was commonly known, Frank Bellew, died on the 29th June, at the home of his daughter, on Long Island. He was born in Calcutta, India, in 1827, and was a scion of the well-known Temple family. He received an education in France, and put out his sign as an architect in London when he was about twenty-two years old. Visiting Scotland the next year, he wrote a series of illustrated sketches that were put in book-form, called "A Cockney in the Highlands." In 1853 he came to this country and embarked with John Brougham in the publication of the Lantern. He joined Thomas Strong in founding Yankee Notions, an issue of the same character. He went to Chicago about 1854, but soon returned here and joined William Levison in the Picayune. About this time he wrote and drew sketches for Harper's Magazine and Harper's Weekly, and afterward he founded various papers, among them John Donkey and Vanity Fair. He returned to England in 1860, where, with George Augustus Sala and Blanchard Jerrold, he founded Temple Bar, and also drew sketches for Punch and American scenes for the Illustrated London News. He came to New York again in 1861, resuming work for the Harpers and for other publishers. Of late years his sketches and writings have appeared in Harper's Magazine, Harper's Young Folks, St. Nicholas, Texas Siftings, and other publications. He started a daily called Dawn three years ago, which was but short-lived.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

M. TAINE'S many admirers in this country will be pleased to learn that his health has so much improved as to permit of his resuming work at the "History of the French Revolution." He is now treating the period during which Bonaparte governed France, and impressed upon it that centralized administration which has continued to the present day.

MME. H. P. BLAVATSKY is engaged upon a work, entitled "The Secret Doctrine: the synthesis of science, religion, and philology." The object of the work is to explain so much of the "Hidden Wisdom"—that is, the existence of the fact that a divine degree of knowledge is possible to human beings under certain conditions—as it is thought expedient to make known at present to men in general. In her earlier work, "Isis Unveiled," the author dealt with science and theology from a critical standpoint. But little of the positive esoteric teaching of the Secret Wisdom was there brought forward, though many hints and suggestions were thrown out. These, it is announced, will find a fuller explanation in the present volumes. The work is to be published in October next in two octavo volumes at $7.50. Orders may be sent to Wm. Q. Judge, P. O. box 2659, New York City.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE announcement that the home of the late Louisa M. Alcott, at Concord, Mass., is to be sold, leads to the suggestion that it be bought by subscription and appropriately converted into a home for poor children as a memorial to the authoress so well beloved by young readers.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish very soon an "Illustrated Primer," by Sarah Fuller, Principal of the Horace Mann School for the Deaf, Boston. The aim of this little book is to familiarize the deaf children with the printed forms of words and sentences which they have learned to speak. To associate these with the objects, there are introduced many simple cuts of common objects with which the pupils are acquainted.

MONDAY, June 25, in the afternoon, while several customers were in the store of William Evarts Benjamin, 6 Astor Place, and the clerks at the rear, a respectably appearing person took from the shelf a copy of the large-paper edition in two volumes of the "Book of the Sonnet," by Leigh Hunt, finely bound in half brown crushed levant morocco, gilt tops, uncut. Price, $12.50 The thief afterwards offered the books to J. Shea, of 75 Nassau St., who refused to buy at the price asked, $5. The trade are requested to detain any person offering the books until an officer can be called. Mr. Benjamin expresses his intention of prosecuting if the thief is caught. It is a singular fact that, owing to mutual good feeling and familiar knowledge of one another, the book-trade has of late years succeeded in apprehending and convicting all the thieves who have attempted to dispose of their booty.

THE volume of short stories, "The Septameron," announced by David McKay, of Philadelphia, will contain the following: "Boscosel," "A Symphony," "Hazard," "The Lost Elixir," "Parthenope's Love," "Villa Vielle's One Mystery," and "An Old Town Tale." Each of these has a distinct author, and the names of the seven, we believe, are Messrs. Francis Howard Williams, Harrison S. Morris, Samuel W. Cooper, Charles Henry Lüders, Colin Campbell Cooper, Jr., Felix E. Schelling, and Wm. Henry Fox, all Philadelphians, known more or less by literary work which has gained acceptance. "Their seven stories of varied conception and interest," says the American, "will doubtless awaken readers to the fact that Philadelphia has a literary circle which can produce the American short story in a perfection which demands applause and approval." The stories have never before been printed, and show an ideal tendency rather than one toward such realism as is coloring the fiction of the day.

American Educational Catalogue

For 1888 [Nineteenth Year].

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE, whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its nineteenth year, claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school-books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most convenient order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue was entirely remade last year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and it will add this year all new books (ready or to be ready for the fall) in their proper alphabetical place.

The page of explanations of the Telegraphic Code will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

The Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00; per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or $1.00 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1.00, postpaid.

TO THE TRADE.

We desire to call the special attention of the Trade to our increased facilities for conducting the book-jobbing business at our new and commodious place of business,

Nos. 740 and 742 Broadway.

We are confident there is no more varied or general stock of

Miscellaneous and School Books,

nor one more readily accessible for easy examination to be found in New York; that nowhere else will customers receive more prompt or careful attention or buy on better terms than we are able to offer on our goods.

We hope for a continuance of the liberal patronage which we received in Bond Street, and trust that the greater convenience of our new location, together with our added facilities for serving our customers with efficiency, promptness, and at the lowest prices, will enable us to merit a still greater share of business.
